Story

Pault started from a simple problem: strong prompts were getting lost across notes apps, chat histories, and temporary docs. We wanted a faster way to keep good work close, improve it over time, and reuse it in real workflows.

The result is a local-first macOS app built for practical prompt operations. Capture what works, refine it, and launch it in seconds.

Principles

1. Local-first workflow

Prompt libraries should stay under the user's control.

2. Fast retrieval

Useful prompts are only valuable when they are easy to find at the right moment.

3. Operational clarity

A prompt library should feel like a reliable system, not a random folder of snippets.

What We Are Building

Pault is focused on becoming the home base for serious prompt workflows: better organization, cleaner launch surfaces, and dependable day-to-day reuse.
